What Is It You Wish?

IS IT STYLE? We keep posted through reading the best trade journals. We visit the style centers of this country for our merchandise. We sell ready-to-wear lines that are thoroughly style-wise.

IS IT SERVICE? The facilities and the conveniences of this store are for the benefit and use of our customers. The boss, the clerks, the light, the broad aisles, the dressing rooms, the up-to-date fixtures, the well appointed windows, are all for the purpose of serving the patrons of this store.

IS IT PRICE? Our buying is done in large quantities for cash, in connection with nine other stores, by experienced men who are thoroughly acquainted with the details of the dry goods business. To a large extent, we buy from the mills and factories, thereby eliminating the jobber and the middleman's profit.

Move to Amend.

It develops that Professor E. A. McMillan of the Ada Normal is responsible for most of the Oklahoman's interesting historical Indian "dope." Therefore a motion to amend all the deserved compliments paid to the "dope" by inserting the name of Professor McMillan is in order, seconded and carried unanimously.—Kansas City Journal.

HEAVY FINE FOR STANDARD

ANTI-TRUST SUITS IN TEXAS COMPROMISED ON BASIS OF HALF MILLION.

Greenville, Tex., July 21.—Before District Judge William Pierson at Greenville today the suit brought on March 5 by Attorney General Looney of Texas against the Magnolia Petroleum Company and others for ouster and penalties aggregating $103,493,000 was settled by agreement.

The principal features of the agreement are:

Features of Agreement.

1. The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is fined $500,000 for violations of the anti-trust law prior to Oct. 26, 1909, and is found not guilty as to charges of subsequent violations.

2. The Magnolia Petroleum Company, its predecessor, John Sealy & Co., John Sealy, the Corsicana Petroleum Company and other defendants are found not guilty to all the counts against them.

3. The 21,596 shares of stock in Magnolia Petroleum Company held in equal division by John D. Archbold and Henry C. Folger Jr., constituting about 90 per cent of the total number of shares, is, by agreement, placed in trust, Hon. F. A. Williams of Galveston, former Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of Texas, being appointed trustee. This stock is disfranchised, and can not be voted, except that the trustee may, in his discretion, vote it, if requested in writing by the owners to do so. They are not barred from receiving the dividends. It is made the duty of the trustee to keep track of the operations of the company and to see that it obeys the law. It is agreed that he shall perform similar functions as to the Corsicana Petroleum Company. The trustee is to receive a salary of $5,000 per annum, four-fifths to be paid by Magnolia Petroleum Company and one-fifth by Corsicana Petroleum. This feature of the judgment is similar to the dissolution judgment in the Union Pacific-Southern Pacific case. The idea in the Union Pacific case came from Texas, it is said.

4. The receiver of the Magnolia Petroleum Company and Corsicana Petroleum Company is discharged.

Governor's Special Message.

At Austin Gov. Colquitt sent the legislature a message recommending that the $500,000 be treated as a special fund, and used to buy from the permanent school fund that amount of the 3 per cent state refunding bonds substituted during the Campbell administration, thus giving the school fund an opportunity to invest the amount in 5 per cent bonds. Representative Wortham at once asked permission to introduce a bill so providing, but Representative Lewelling objected.

Judgment was not entered at Greenville until Attorney General Looney had been advised by the Austin National Bank that the $500,000 had been deposited to the credit of the state. It will be paid into the treasury Wednesday, less fees to the attorneys in the case.

Pennsylvania Democrats.

Harrisburg, Pa., July 2.—Democratic leaders of Pennsylvania are rounding up here for the annual meeting of the State Central Committee tomorrow. Interest in the meeting centers chiefly in the election of a new chairman to succeed George W. Guthrie, ambassador to Japan. The candidates for the place are Roland S. Morris of Philadelphia, E. Lowry Humes, of Crawford county, leader of the party forces in the last legislature, and Joseph O'Brien, of Scranton, chairman of the last state convention. The state chairmanship will be an important office next year, because candidates for governor and United States senator will be nominated.

MEXICAN SITUATION GROWS CRITICAL

City of Mexico, July 21.—Tuxpan, a maritime town 145 miles northwest of Vera Cruz, was captured by rebels under Jose Vegas Saturday after a hard fight.

In answer to an appeal from the British Consular representative, the United States battleship Louisiana, with Rear Admiral Frank F. Fletcher aboard, has sailed for that port.

Tuxpan is situated on a river five miles from the Gulf of Mexico. It is an oil center and a considerable number of Americans reside there. If it should become necessary to give protection Admiral Fletcher would have to land a force, as the Louisiana could not proceed beyond the Gulf.

Vera Cruz, Mex., July 21.—The United States battleship Louisiana left here tonight under full speed. She is bound for Tuxpan, where it is understood Americans and other foreign residents are in need of protection.

American families are seeking refuge here, fearing that disturbances may follow the demonstrations in honor of the new Japanese Minister.

The Rivadavia to Be Tried Out.

Boston, Mass., July 22.—When the Argentine dreadnought Rivadavia leaves Quincy next week for the Brooklyn Navy Yard, there to be cleaned and painted preparatory to her final trials for speed and other acceptance tests, she will at once engross the undivided attention of naval men.

Interest in the Rivadavia lies chiefly in the fact that she and her sister ship, the Morena, under construction at Camden, N. J., are the first so-called dreadnoughts to be built in the United States for a foreign country. When, three years ago, the contracts for building the Rivadavia and the Morena, respectively, the shipbuilders of the United States won their first important victory in bidding for the construction of warships in competition with representatives of the leading nations of the world.

By courtesy of the Navy Department the Rivadavia will be drydocked at the Brooklyn Navy Yard and put in shape for her final speed trials. It is expected these trials will take place off the Maine coast week after next. The ship is required by contract to make at least 22 1-2 knots an hour, and the tests prescribed for her are the same as those for United States warships.

The Rivadavia will be the equal in size and fighting strength of any battleship now afloat. She has a total displacement of 27,500 tons, is 585 feet long, 98 feet in breadth and has a normal draught of 27.6 feet. Externally she resembles vessels of the class of which the United States battleship Arkansas is a type.

The batteries of the Argentine dreadnought will consist of twelve 12-inch guns, which constitute the main battery; twelve 6-inch, six of which can be fired broadside at the same time the main battery is fired; twelve 4-inch guns, besides several guns of smaller calibre, and two 21-inch submerged torpedo tubes.

Five Governors in One Year.

Little Rock, Ark., July 22.—The state campaign in Arkansas closed today. Tomorrow the voters will select a governor to succeed J. M. Futrell, who has been filling the vacancy caused by the resignation of Governor Joseph T. Robinson, now United States senator.

The Democratic candidate for the governorship is Judge George W. Hays of Camden, and his election is generally conceded. Judge Hays is opposed by Harry H. Myers, the republican candidate, and George W. Murphy the nominee of the progressive party.

Tomorrow's election will give Arkansas the rather unique distinction of having five governors in 1913. The unusually large number of executives is due to the fact that heretofore Arkansas has had no lieutenant governor to succeed to the governorship in case of a vacancy. The president

WHY GIRLS LEAVE

SCHOOL EARLY

(By Burton K. Siandish)

Washington, July 2.—Interesting because of its bearing on the testimony as to girls' employment recently investigated by the Illinois senatorial "white slave" probing committee is a bulletin just issued by the Bureau of Education. It attempts to tell "why girls leave school," and it is written after a careful study of trade and labor conditions among girls in Worcester, Mass., preliminary to the establishment of a trade school for girls. The conclusion reached is that from one-half to three-fourths of the girls at work in factories could have had further schooling if they had wanted to, or if their parents had cared to insist on it.

The survey shows that the number of girls between 14 and 16 years of age who leave school is constantly increasing. During the past five years many more girls between those ages left the Worcester schools than can be accounted for by increase in the population. Only about 17 per cent of them had finished the grammar schools; most of them left in the sixth and seventh year. Worcester is taken as a fair index of any of the manu-ing they might have liked and would have profited by, they blindly joined the army of shifting, inefficient discontented girls that go from one monotonous factory job to another and, because of their lack of training, rarely rise above the class of low-paid, unskilled workers.

L. J. Crowder's barber shop is now snugly located in his old stand which he had renovated at considerable expense. Everything about it is strictly up to the mark.

facturing towns in the country.

Why did these girls leave school? Various reasons were assigned by the girls themselves. Some thirty said they "did not like school; could not get along with the teacher; were not promoted, or wanted to go to work." Two were working to help pay for a piano. One of these was a cash girl of 14 years who had left the ninth grade to go to work in a department store for $2.00. Later she got $2.50 per week. Another was a girl of 15 from the eighth grade, who went to work in a corset factory for $1.00 and rose to $4.82 per week. Still another girl was taking music lessons and contributing to the payment of a piano.

Twenty-seven girls were found at home. In some cases they had left school to help with the housework, while a few left at a time of temporary stress and then had not returned. Four girls had changed places with the mother, who worked in a corset factory, laundry, or some such place, while the girl, whose wage-earning power was small, kept house for the mother of the children.

Curious differences as to what the parents thought they could afford were discovered. The mother of a family of eight children living apparently in abject poverty, would have been glad to have sacrificed and pinched still further to have had her daughter stay in school longer, if she would. The mother of another family of six (living in a comfortable apartment house, with hardwood floors, piano and other luxuries, said her daughter wished to stay in school longer, but the burden of supporting the family was too heavy for the father to bear alone; so the girl was taken out of school to go to work. A visit to a Swedish family revealed a carpenter and his wife, a washerwoman, who had just built and owned a new three-story apartment house. Yet the 15 year old daughter with a seventh grade education had been sent to work in a papergoods factory at $2.00 per week. The question "why did you leave school" was put to 336 more mature workers in the corset trade. Ninety-one per cent of these women had left school between the ages of 14 and 16, and fully 50 per cent because of their dislike of a school or because they wanted to go to work. Of 74 workers in a clothing factory, 85 per cent had left school between the ages of 13 and 16, and of these 25 per cent left school of their own volition.

In the opinion of the Board of Education conditions such as found at Worcester emphasize the imperative need for special training of a practical sort for girls between 13 and 15. In the main the girls left school simply because they disliked the school work. Not getting the kind of train-

Harrison, Clerk U. S. District Court, filed July 19, 1913, R. H. Matthews, Referee, C. F. Green, Ada, Okla., Attorney for bankrupt:

WHEREAS, the above and foregoing application for discharge from all his debts and other claims provable under Acts of Congress relating to bankruptcy, has been made by the above named bankrupt, and said application has been referred to the undersigned as Special Master in Chancery, now on motion of bankrupt's attorney.

It is Ordered that all creditors of the above named bankrupt, as well as all other parties in interest appear before the undersigned Special Master in Chancery at his office in the City of McAlester, Pittsburg County, State of Oklahoma, and in said District, at a hearing to be had on such application on the 25th day of August, A. D., 1913, at the hour of 10 o'clock A. M., or as soon thereafter as such hearing may be had, and show cause why such application should not be granted.

In Witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand at the City of McAlester, in said District, on this 21st day of September, 1913.

R. H. MATTHEWS,
Referee in Bankruptcy as Special Master in Chancery.

MAKING OVER MAYBRIDGE

The conservative Dunkle shook his forefinger as he vigorously retorted, "Young man, don't think that you can come back here to your old home and force city ways on us just to show your smartness. Maybridge has done without for ten years and got along pretty well, too, and now if we propose to go along in the even tenor of our way, that's what we'll do. Young man, you're a disturber, and, Mr. President, I desire to withdraw my motion and put another one. I move we adjourn."

"Second the motion," called Ezra Galpin.

The chairman arose. "You've heard the motion, gentlemen. Have you any remarks?"

George was on his feet in an instant.

"I very keenly regret," he began, "that my purpose is so grossly misunderstood. I sincerely trust that you will defeat this motion and organize here and now a committee to brighten up Maybridge. I have told you I want to do something for the old town. I have explained my willingness to serve you in the campaign I have outlined. But, gentlemen, if you reject this service, I propose to go about the work just the same without you. Maybridge will be brightened up this month."

He sat down.

"Any further remarks?" asked the chairman.

Herbert Newberry, one of the young members of the club arose.

"I am heartily in favor of Mr. Hollister's suggestions," he said. "They're in keeping with progress. Of course they may be found objectionable by the owners of some ramshackle old buildings that ought to be torn down or fixed up." He looked unflinchingly at the chairman. "And the agent of some vacant property that resembles a rubbish heap naturally would be disgruntled at the thought of having to clear it off." His gaze turned toward Lawyer Dunkle. "But just the same there are enough good citizens in Maybridge who love and respect their town to see this movement put through."

As he sat down, the chairman cleared his throat and announced nervously, "We mustn't adjourn, gentlemen, with any feeling of bitterness toward each other. We are all members of the same club, the same church and, for that matter, the same town. If some people in Maybridge want to improve the appearance of their property, that's their business. If others don't want to, I don't believe anyone can make 'em. And so, unless there's further remarks," he looked around the room, "the meetin' stands adjourned."

The next morning there was a brisk conference in the office of the editor of The Daily Chronicle.

George Hollister did most of the talking, the editor showing his interest and approval with an occasional, "I see. Of course, Undoubtedly and just so."

At the end of the meeting the two shook hands, and the editor sat down to look over the papers the young man had left.

For several days Lawyer Dunkle proudly boasted of how he had "laid out cold that fresh young Hollister and his fool ideas." Reports of this boasting talk reached George, but he only smiled grimly and said, "We'll see."

It was a week after the memorable meeting when The Daily Chronicle came out with a first page news story and a long editorial headed, "Brighten Up Maybridge." The news story stated that a campaign to improve the general appearance of the town would be waged for one week and commence the following Monday, and the editorial called upon all loyal citizens to co-operate in the movement. The editor asked for suggestions as to the furtherance of the campaign and promised to print worthy communications. He recommended that all residents of the town become members of a Brighten Up Club, in which there would be no dues, nor fees nor meetings. The rules of the proposed organization and its purposes were printed in a frame and read as follows:

BRIGHTEN UP MAYBRIDGE

1. Do not allow rubbish to accumulate.
 2. Do not throw anything on sidewalks or streets.
 3. Do not let piles of ashes or trash remain in back yards.
 4. Do not mark or deface sidewalks, fences, buildings or public property.
 5. Plant grass and flower seeds.
 6. Apply paint to fences, sheds and buildings.
 7. And when Maybridge is brightened up, keep it so!
- The general purposes of this crusade against rubbish and for beauty are: to help the whole village life, to protect against fire, to improve the general health, to exert an educational influence upon the school children, to advance business conditions and to favorably impress all visitors to Maybridge.

The same afternoon that The Chronicle made its announcement, every pupil in Maybridge went home from school with a neat folder containing the rules of the Brighten Up Campaign together with the endorsement of the superintendent of schools.

On Sunday three ministers announced the plans of the Brighten Up Crusade from their pulpits and urged their congregations to participate. The coming campaign was well advertised, at any rate.

Johann Stubbs and James Dunkle walked home from church together.

"It's easy enough to start something," said the former, "but it's a different matter to complete it."

"Yes," agreed the lawyer. "This fresh young Hollister I suppose is chortlin' about the spurge he's made. But I reckon he'll feel pretty sick next Saturday night, when his campaign's over and Maybridge hasn't changed at whit."

CARDINAL GIBBONS

NEARS 80TH YEAR

Baltimore, Md., July 22.—Cardinal Gibbons will enter upon his eightieth year tomorrow, having been born July 23, 1834. His eminence was ordained in 1861 and began his priestly labors as curate at St. Patrick's church, Fells Point, Baltimore. Six weeks later he was appointed pastor of a church at Locust Point. This was his only experience as pastor. Those were trying days for the young priest the first days of the civil war, but he performed his duty faithfully and regularly. He served as chaplain of Fort McHenry, which was then used not only as a fort, but also as a prison for Confederates. As a result of his good work he was appointed, four years later, secretary to Archbishop Spalding of Baltimore. Thenceforward honors and promotions came to him rapidly. In 1868 he was consecrated bishop of Adramyttum. Four years later he was transferred from the diocese of North Carolina to the bishopric of Richmond. In May, 1877, he became coadjutor archbishop of Baltimore and a few months later he succeeded to the see. In 1886 he was created cardinal.

Cardinal Gibbons occupies a unique position in the city and state, with which he has been identified for so many years, and he has long been recognized as one of the foremost Americans. It is doubtful if any other citizen of the United States has exerted such a strong influence abroad as he. To mention his name anywhere in America or Europe evokes tributes which come equally from Protestants and Catholics.

That he is held high in the esteem, not only of the Catholic clergy and laity, but also those of other denominations, is shown by the many congratulatory messages which are being received at the archiepiscopal residence in anticipation of his birthday. They express the hope that he will live to see many more celebrations of his anniversary.

The Cardinal continues to live a busy life, despite his advanced age and is in good health. His vitality has caused expressions of amazement and his vigor is attributed to his systematic method of living. In addition to carrying on the work of his high office regularly, he has found time for the performance of many ceremonies and to assist at commencements, celebrations in honor of priests and sisters, first masses of young priests, weddings and other exercises. Last month he was present at a dozen young priests, weddings and other exercises. Last month he was present at a dozen or more commencements in different parts of Maryland and in the latter part of the month ordained nearly fifty students to the priesthood. Almost every day he has a walk for an hour or more, and this doubtless accounts in part for his good health.

Anger is Not Manly.
Let this truth be present to thee in the excitement of anger—that to be moved by passion is not manly, but that mildness and gentleness, as they are more agreeable to human nature, so also are they more manly, for in the same degree in which a man's mind is nearer to freedom from all passion, in the same degree also is it nearer to strength.—Marcus Aurelius.

JURY ASSESSES PENALTY OF A YEAR AND A DAY IN THE PENITENTIARY.

This morning the jury in the case of Wallace Dagg, charged with being a party to the maiming of Tom Hurst some months ago, returned a verdict of guilty and assessed a penalty of a year and a day in the state penitentiary. The case will in all probability be appealed. The other three involved in the case will not be tried at the present term.

Taylor on trial for third time

The day in district court has been occupied with the trial of J. B. Taylor on a charge of killing Clayton Copeland at Tyrone June 1, 1911.

Very little trouble was encountered in empanelling the jury and the case has progressed rapidly. It will probably be given to the jury late this afternoon or Wednesday morning. Crawford & Bolen are representing the defense.

The defense alleges that Taylor shot Copeland in self defense; that he and his family had suffered many insults from his hands and that Copeland had ordered Taylor to move out of the house which was occupied jointly by them while cultivating the farm rented by the two. At the time he was shot Copeland was carrying a bucket of water to the house and he died very shortly afterwards. The weapon used was a single barrel shotgun.

Taylor has been tried twice before, both trials resulting in hung juries.

Following is a list of the jurors in the present trial:

Charley Grindstaff, T. D. Brooks, A. J. Summers, W. L. Gilmore, J. R. Gilmore, Henry Hensler, Alfred Summers, R. R. Johnson, W. E. Heady, J. W. Beard, Jno. Conder, V. B. Daniels.

Tom Davis will be paroled

Tom Davis of Steedman, serving a 90 day sentence for conviction in a cutting affray, has been granted a parole by Gov. Cruce. The parole will take effect on his paying the costs of the case and will last during good behavior. He has served about two-thirds of the original sentence.

IN HONOR OF PROF. W. H. COX

Monday evening, in the reception room of the Normal, an informal reception was held in honor of Prof. W. H. Cox by the Masonic members of the faculty, Prof. C. W. Briles and wife, and M. F. Manville and F. C. Sims and wives, the last two men named being the officers of the lodge who conferred the degrees on Mr. Cox. Miss Kate Knight assisted in entertaining the guests of the occasion. After a pleasant social hour and game of 42, in which the score was kept on cards painted with the Knights Templar emblem by Miss Vera MacMillan.

After three years of splendid work as head of the manual training department of the East Central Normal, Prof. Cox will leave in a few days on a year's leave of absence. He will be married in Kansas Friday of the present week, and it was in honor of the two events that his fellow members of the faculty held the reception.

However, a surprise awaited Mr. Cox at the close of the evening. As a token of their esteem the others had purchased a fine Knights Templar watch charm, which was presented with a few appropriate words by President Briles. After his response Messrs. Sims and Manville also had a few words to say. With the charm the following signed address was presented:

To Prof. William Harry Cox:

As a slight token of the esteem and affection in which you are held by us we take pleasure in presenting you a Knights Templar charm.

May the beautiful tenets of Masonry ever guide you and yours throughout life's fitful journey.

PAULS VALLEY PEOPLE EXCITED BY KILLING

Pauls Valley, Ok., July 21.—Since 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon the people of Pauls Valley have been in a state of great excitement on account of the shooting of 7-year-old David Vanness by a negro. The boy is expected to die at any moment.

A mob of probably 100 citizens searched all last night for the negro. Sheriff Worley and posse found the fugitive in the negro portion of Wynnewood today and at once placed him in an automobile and hurried him to Davis, the first station south, where he was sent to Ardmore.

Parties in Wynnewood pursued the sheriff's car to Davis, shooting and threatening vengeance.

According to the best information obtainable, some boys had been in the negro's watermelon patch. Upon being discovered they were chased and the little fellow was struck in the hip by a bullet of large caliber. The negro, who is 58 years old and bears a good reputation here, claims he was pursuing the boys and fell when the pistol was accidentally discharged. The boys claim that the shot was fired deliberately at a distance of only a few feet.

Owing to the fact that the criminal docket of district court has overlapped the time and it being necessary for Judge McKeown to hold a two weeks term at Wewoka in August to clear the criminal docket, an order was made this afternoon continuing the civil jury docket of the present term until September 15. After the case on trial is disposed of it is planned to try Clarence Evans, who is in jail on a charge of assault with intent to kill, and the remainder of the

Do not cover any external sore so as to interfere with perspiration and the formation of protective scabs. Keep it clean and banded. If it is a stubborn case, flush your blood with S.S.S. This famous blood purifier works wonders. And you can easily give your blood a good, thorough cleansing by using S.S.S. There is no need for anyone to be despondent over the illness of blood impurities. No matter how badly they attack the system, just remember there is one ingredient in S.S.S. that stimulates the cellular tissues throughout the body that each selects its own essential nutrient from the blood.

This means that all decay, all breaking down of the tissues, is healed and repair work begins. S.S.S. has such a specific influence on all local cells as to preserve their mutual welfare and afford a proper relative assistance to each other. More attention is being given to constructive medicine than ever before, and S.S.S. is the highest achievement in this line. Do not fail to get a bottle of S.S.S. to-day. HOW REDLANDS GOT RID OF ITS FLIES

A year ago Redlands, California, was swarming with flies; today a fly is rarely seen. This splendid result has been brought about by the use of large traps, such as are becoming numerous on the streets of Ada. An article describing the work in Redlands appeared in Sunday's Dallas News and in part reads as follows:

The duties of the municipal fly catcher consist simply in daily baiting the traps, collecting the flies and burning them. According to the report he filed at the end of his first month in office, September, 1912, he killed 3,750,000 flies. He had emptied fifty gallons of flies from 100 traps scattered through the business portion of Redlands and he estimated that there were 75,000 flies to a gallon. At this rate of destruction it is no wonder Redlands soon became a flyless town.

At present, over 500 fly traps are distributed over the little city. They are to be seen in every place—in front of the municipal building, the post-office, the railroad stations, many of the big shops and along the highways, but recently the daily task of the official fly catcher has been light. It was in July a year ago that Mr. Chapman built his first "fly catcher" and began experimenting. He found that if the trap could be shaded so that the light would show higher through the cone more flies would enter the cone. He also found that the traps on the shady side of the street would always catch more flies than those on the sunny side.

It was quickly discovered, in conversing with Redland's fly-catcher, that he has made a deep study of the psychology of flies. He knows how, when and where they breed, how much damage they do and how necessary it is to the health of any community to get rid of the pests.

"Every one knows," he said, "the real danger of the housefly. It has been spread broadcast until there is scarcely an intelligent community but contains people who know how the fly can carry all sorts of foul disease germs; how typhoid tuberculosis and many other dread diseases—even infantile paralysis—can be spread by the flies.

"It probably seems to almost every householder that winter kills off all the flies; even a month of cold weather seems sufficient for this; but if you will investigate in the early spring you will be amazed to find many flies about your home. Look in your cellar and you will doubtless find these flies patiently dozing away around the hot-air pipes, in corners of the ceiling, in the rafters and crevices around the kindling piles, behind barrels and boxes stored away, and in many such places.

"In the early April days, or, in the South, as early as the first of March, the female fly that so cleverly tucked herself away in some warm nook of your house will begin to awake from her long sleep, flutter her wings, shiver a few shivers and then fare forth to multiply.

"This female fly has from 120 to 200 eggs which she wants to deposit and which she will deposit. If there is no stable at hand she will deposit those eggs in the garbage pan, or even in the earth of your rubber plant or ferns or palms. She will find some place to deposit these eggs—any place where there is exposed organic material.

"Now, if the weather is fairly warm, every female fly that was hatched from the 200 eggs deposited by our first fly (the one that passed through the winter sleeping) will begin to deposit eggs at the end of ten days.

"The little fly that first deposited eggs the first of April will have been responsible for descendants by the first of next September that will amount to ten raised to the thirteenth power, or more than one hundred thousand million! If one fly can do this, what can a houseful of flies do?"

"The remedy is to begin in the early spring and fight the flies. Search your house as though you were looking for a two carat diamond you knew was there, hunt up every fly in every cranny and crevice and kill it. When the warm weather comes keep up the fight with screen and traps and above all with searching out the breeding places and destroying them.

"Working on the basis that the best way was not to swat, so generally advocated, but to capture in large quantities, I devised the fly catcher. How successful they have been only Redlands knows. They have kept the dwellings, and even the meat markets grocery stores and fruit shops almost entirely free of flies and each day thousands and thousands of the pests are caught in the traps.

"The most important thing in the use of the fly trap and it should be frequently renewed. It should always be fresh and never allowed to dry up, for it then loses its attractiveness. The best way to kill the trapped flies is to immerse the top portion of the trap in boiling water; then destroy the dead flies by burning, destroying all the germs that are on them."

To Exterminate the Mosquito.

Atlantic City, N. J., July 22.—If plans of the County Mosquito Extermination Commission are successfully carried out Atlantic City and vicinity will soon be freed from the mosquito pest, which has long given the New Jersey coast an unenviable reputation. Tomorrow the commission will receive bids for the excavation of 200,000 square feet of small ditches to drain the meadows between the city and the mainland. Twenty thousand dollars will be expended in the work of draining the meadows, which are the breeding places for the mosquitoes.

THE Melting of Molly

SYNOPSIS

The teller of the story, Molly Carter, a young widow, awaiting the return of Al Bennett, an old flame, who is now a distinguished diplomat, tries to reduce weight. Her physician, adviser and next door neighbor is Dr. John, a widower and father of young Billy, whom Molly loves.

Molly is surprised at play with Billy by Judge Wade, who is the most dignified and able man in Hillsboro. Billy comes over from next door with his father.

Hillsboro receives a visit from Ruth Chester, a friend of Bennett, and Molly finds her delightful. Molly goes to the city for an outfit of clothing.

"Now, Mrs. Molly, truly, did you ever see such a peach as she is?" he demanded after I had expressed more than a dozen delighted opinions of Miss Chester. His use of the word "peach" riled me and before I stopped to think I said, "She reminds me more of a string bean."

"Now, Molly, don't be mean just because old Wade has got her out driving behind the grays after kissing your hand under the lilacs yesterday, which, praise be, nobody saw but little me! I'm not sure; why should you be? Aren't you happy with me?"

I withered him with a look, or, rather tried to wither him, for Tom is no mimosa bud.

"The way that girl has started in to wake up this little old town reminds me of the feeling you get under your belt seven minutes after you've sipped an absinth frappe for the first time—you are liable for a good jag and don't know it," he continued enthusiastically. "Let's don't let the folks know that they are off until I get everybody in a full swing of buzz over my queen." I had never seen Tom so enthusiastic over a girl before, and I didn't like it. But I decided not to let him know that, but to get to work putting out the Chester blaze in him and starting one on my own account.

"That's just what I'm thinking about, Tom," I said with a smile that was as sweet as I could make it, "and as she came with messages to me from one of my best old friends I think I ought to do something to make her have a good time. I was just planning a gorgeous dinner party I want to have for her when you came so suddenly. Do you think we could arrange it for Tuesday evening?"

"Lord love us, Molly! Don't knock the town down like that. Let 'em have more than a week to get used to this white rag of a dress you've been waving in their faces for the last few days. Go slow!"

"I've been going so slow for so many years that I've turned around and I'm going fast backward," I said with a blush that I couldn't help.

"Help! Let my kinship protect me!" exclaimed Tom in alarm, and he pretended to move an inch away from me. "Yes," I said slowly, and as I looked out of the corner of my eyes from under the lashes that Tom himself had once told me were "too long and black to be tidy" I saw that he was in a condition to get the full shock. "If anybody wakes up this town it will be I," I said as I lunged down the gauntlet with a high heel.

"Here, Molly, here are the keys of my office and the spark plug to the auto. You can cut off a lock of my hair, and if Judy has got a cake I'll eat it out of your hands. Shall it be California or Nova Scotia? And I prefer my bride served in light gray tweed." Tom really is adorable, and I let him snuggle up just one cozily second. Then we both laughed and began to plan what Tom was horrible enough to call the resurrection rance. But I kept that delicious rose embroidered treasure all to myself. I wanted him to meet it entirely unprepared.

I was glad we had both got over our excitement and were sitting decorously at several inches' distance apart when the judge drew the grays up to the gate, and we both went down to the sidewalk to ask him and the lovely long lady to come in. They couldn't, but we stood and talked to them long enough for Mrs. Johnson to get a good look at us from across the street, and I was afraid I would find Aunt Adeline in a faint when I went into the house.

Miss Chester was delightfully gracious about the dinner—I almost called it the debut dinner—and the expression on the judge's face when he accepted! I was glad she was sitting sideways to him and couldn't see. Some women like to make other women unhappy, but I think it is best for you to keep them blissfully unconscious until you get what you want. Anyway, I like that girl all over, and I can't see that her neck is so absolutely impossibly flowery. However, I think she might have been a little more considerate about discussing Alfred's London triumph over the Italian mission. As a punishment I let Tom put his arm around my waist as we stood watching them drive off and then was sorry for the left gray horse that shied and came in for a crack of the judge's irritated whip.

Then I refused to let Tom come inside the gate and he went down the street whistling, only when he got to the purple lilac he turned and kissed his hand to me. That Mrs. Johnson just couldn't stand, and she came across the street immediately and called me back to the gate.

"You are tempting Providence, Molly Carter," she exclaimed decidedly. "Don't you know Tom Pollard is nothing but a fly up the creek? As a husband he'd chew the rope and run away like a puppy the first time your back was turned. Besides being your cousin, he's younger than you. What do you mean?"

"He's just a week younger, Mrs. Johnson, and I wouldn't tie him for worlds, even if I married him," I said meekly. Somehow I like Mrs. Johnson enough to be meek with her and it always brings her to a higher point of excitement.

"The, nonsense; marrying is roping in with ball and chain, to my mind. And a week between a man and a woman in their cradles gets to be fifteen years between them and their graves. I'm going to make you the subject of a silent prayer at the next missionary meeting, and I must go home now to see that Sally cooks up a few of Mr. Johnson's crochets for supper." And she began to hurry away.

"I don't believe you'll be able to make it a 'silent' session about me, Mrs. Johnson," I called after her, and she laughed back from her own front gate. Marriage is the only worm in the bud of Mrs. Johnson's life, and her laugh has a snap to it even if it is not very sugary sweet.

When I told Judy about the dinner party and asked her to get the yellow barber to come help her and her nephew wait on the table she grinned such a wide grin that I was afraid of being swallowed. She understood that Aunt Adeline wouldn't be interested in it until I had time to tell her all about it. Anyway, she will be going over to Springfield on a pilgrimage to see Mr. Henderson's sister next week. She doesn't know it yet, but I do.

After that I spent all the rest of the evening in planning my dinner party, and I had a most royal good time. I always have had lots of company, but mostly the spend the day kind with relatives or more relatives to supper. That's what most entertaining in Hillsboro is like; but, as I say, once in awhile the old slow pacer wakes up.

I'll never forget my first real dinner party, as the dower girl for Caroline Evans' wedding, when she married the Chicago millionaire, from which Hillsboro has never yet recovered. I was sixteen, felt dreadfully naked without a tucker in my dress and saw Alfred for the first time in evening clothes—his first. I can hardly stand thinking about how he looked even now. I haven't been to very many dinner parties in my life, but from this time on I mean to indulge in them often. Candle light, pretty women's shoulders, black coat sleeves, cut glass and flowers are good ingredients for a joy drink, and why not?

But when I got to planning about the gorgeous food I wanted to give them all I got into what I feel came near being a serious trouble. It was writing down the recipe for the nesselrode pudding they make in my family that undid me. Suddenly hunger rose up from nowhere and gripped me by the throat, gnawed me all over like a bone, then shook me until I was limp and unresisting. I must have astralked myself down to the pantry, for when I became conscious I found myself in company with a loaf of bread, a plate of butter and a huge jar of jam.

I sat down by the long table by the window and slowly prepared to enjoy myself. I cut off four slices and buttered them to an equal thickness and then more slowly put a long silver spoon into the jam. I even paused to admire in Judy's mirror over the table the effect of the cascade of lace that fell across my arm and lost itself in the blue shimmer of old Rene's masterpiece of a negligee, then deep down I buried the spoon in the purple sweetness. I had just lifted it high in the air when out of the lilac scented dark of the garden came a laugh.

"Why, Molly, Molly, Molly!" drawled that miserable man doctor as he came and leaned on the sill right close to my elbow. The spoon crashed on the table, and I turned and crashed into words.

"You are cruel, cruel, John Moore, and I hate you worse than I ever did before, if that is possible. I'm hungry, hungry to death, and now you've spoiled it all! Go away before I wet this nice crisp bread and jam with tears into a mush I'll have to eat with a spoon. You don't know what it is to want something sweet so bad you are willing to steal it—from yourself!" I fairly blazed my eyes down into his and moved as far away from him as the table would let me.

CLEAN TOWN CONTEST

The Food Products Committee found room for improvement from the standpoint of cleanliness, and health in several places when on their round of inspection of the groceries, butcher shops, soda fountains, bakeries, confectionaries, dairies, ice cream factory, etc. They have almost completed their first round and will soon be ready for another inspection. There were so few places where they were not well received that the exceptions are notable.

These ladies have an order for the consumers of some of these products, however, for some customers have been sadly remiss (as well as dispensers.) They wish to issue an order in the matter of milk bottles and ice cream cans or any other milk container, no such article may be returned without having been rinsed when emptied and thoroughly washed. This is a most important point and will be looked after thoroughly. Bear it in mind you who use milk and ice cream.

How Sherman Cleans Up.

"The American City," a very superior magazine devoted to "Municipal Problems and Civic Betterment," has in its July issue an article by Ewing

Galloway entitled as above. The Civic League found that the mayor's proclamations had not successfully accomplished their purpose so the club women took the matter in hand. Mayor John C. Wall, Alderman C. A. Thomas, chairman of the sanitary committee of the council and Chief of Police McAfee, the latter looking after shirkers assisted the ladies. In ten days they had Sherman immaculate.

The ordinance drawn up after due consultation provided for "four four-day cleanup periods a year, three months apart. During these periods all owners or lessees of real estate must remove the dirt and trash from their premises leaving it in garbage receptacles in front of their property or in the alleys in the rear. The hauling was to be done by the street cleaning department at the city's expense. A clause was added providing that at the close the chief of police should have a thorough inspection made of everybody's premises and should prosecute in the court all who failed to comply with the letter of the ordinance.

The Texas town has done good pioneering, and its municipal house cleaning law is likely to be copied by other cities throughout the country."

Ada residents who are working in this campaign will agree with the frequent clean-up periods and inspections. Ada needs the same thing.

The Skin and not the Blood.

Until recently it has been a generally accepted theory that eczema was a disease of the blood. Scientific investigations have taught us that eczema is positively a skin disease and curable through the skin alone. Meritol Eczema Remedy is applied directly to the diseased skin, the effect is marvelous and its results permanent. Do not delay trying Meritol Eczema Remedy.

"Do you know, Phoebe, I've done a whole morning's 'running around' in those few minutes at the telephone. Ugh! I shiver at the thought of going out."

"And without the telephone I would have had to go to market and to shop, for it would have been a shame to miss those bargains advertised for this morning. Why, you know, I bought ten yards—"
